

Building Places Where “All Kids Can”

CVS All Kids Can is a five-year, $25 million commitment to making life easier for children with disabilities. Through this signature program, CVS/pharmacy Charitable Trust, CVS/pharmacy and its more than 145,000 employees plan to help children with disabilities learn, play and succeed through partnerships with leading local and national nonprofit organizations including Easter Seals, Boundless Playgrounds, Meeting Street, The Heller School for Social Policy and many others.

The program will sponsor innovative programs and services that support children with disabilities in select cities, before expanding the program nationally in subsequent years. CVS All Kids Can will focus on three key areas of support:

- LEARN - CVS will provide funding for programs, adaptive technologies and other services that promote equal opportunity for children with disabilities.
- PLAY - The CVS/pharmacy Charitable Trust will provide grants to help build barrier-free playgrounds in communities nationwide, and expand existing recreation areas for children with disabilities.
- SUCCEED - The CVS All Kids Can Fund will support care and services for children with disabilities at select Easter Seals across the country.

This innovative program will help Boundless Playgrounds raise awareness about the importance of play for children with disabilities. In addition to supporting the development of barrier-free play environments, Boundless Playgrounds will be featured on the CVS All Kids Can website www.cvs.com/allkidscan, in CVS/pharmacy’s annual report, and in other education and outreach materials.

Tom Ryan, Chairman, President and CEO of CVS/pharmacy, summed up the importance of this program when he said, “In launching CVS All Kids Can, we will help children with disabilities to reach their greatest potential because we believe that all kids can!”
